

religious ideas originating with a few thousand tribesmen invading Canaan about 1250 B.C., on the basis of beliefs of all Jews, Christians, and Muslims.

4500C: The Gorty-Laws that have been preserved as stone inscriptions in Crete make reference to rights of marriage and property: "XI. If a slave given to a free woman shall wed her, the children shall be free; but, if the free woman to a slave, the children shall be slaves; and if from the same mother free and slave children be born, if the mother die and there be property, the free children shall have it; otherwise her free relatives shall succeed to it."

Control (63): Control of information access and compliance

